Christine M. Breunig, M.S., is the Program Administrator for the Northeast Regional Center for Children and Youth with Special Health Care Needs at Children’s Hospital of WI – Fox Valley. She provides leadership for outreach and training for primary care practices within the Northeast Region – with a focus on early developmental screening, assessment and referral. She is also a faculty consultant for the Wisconsin Autism Spectrum Disorders Connection Initiative. Prior to this position Christine was the project Coordinator for the National Medical Home Autism Initiative from 2004 - 2008. Christine provided technical assistance and training to 10 medical home practices, coordinates development of materials and activities, and facilitates the Autism Service Guideline Work Group for the Federal Maternal Child Health Bureau.

As a grandmother of 5, Christine is passionate about health care options, through a medical home, and early identification of developmental disabilities for all children. As a former educational administrator and executive director of a child care resource and referral agency, Christine brings experience in systems management, quality improvement/change and communication to this initiative.
